

Summary

Buckeye Corrugated Incorporated is experiencing an increase in a demand for their product, specifically at their Tennessee Packaging facility presently in Sweetwater, TN. This demand requires them to increase their operation from a 72,000 sf structure to a 120,000 sf structure. The existing site will not allow for this expansion, therefore, they have found a new location in Loudon County. In addition, due to the increase demand they are seeing in the South, they are proposing to move their corporate headquarters to this site, which will provide a more centralized spot from their present and future locations. The proposed site will accommodate their immediate needs as well as allow for future expansion.

If the State of Tennessee can provide funding for the grading and infrastructure improvements for this new location, Buckeye Corrugated Incorporated will be much more favorable for the company to expand their Tennessee plant in lieu of another location outside the state. The estimated project costs for the improvements including engineering, survey and construction administration and review fees is estimated to be $792,289 (see attached Estimated Infrastructure Improvements Costs).
